DEIRDRA COX

Deirdra Cox is the Founder and President of Community Sustainability Enterprise (CSE), an economic and community-developed focused Georgia-based 501c3, whose vision is cultivating inclusive communities that turn jobs into careers, financial literacy into wealth, and collective success into generational change: producing an equitable economy.

Community Sustainability Enterprise is in the business of transforming families, businesses, and neighborhoods into thriving households and financially sustainable communities, that generate wealth and pass on family legacies.

Deirdra is a 36-year veteran of the banking industry, in the community development space, where sustainable homeownership and small business, through financial literacy and capability and workforce development were her focus. Deirdra's ability to build sustainable collaborative partnerships that produce viable programming that transforms socioeconomic trajectories, builds financial self-efficacy, and transforms corporate bottom lines through dynamic corporate social responsibility initiatives has become her professional trademark across the southeast.
